LENHART TESTIFYING IN HIS BEHALF DENIES CHARGES

Declares Dealings Were Business Like In Character.

COMMITTED NO CRIME

Defense Alleges Character Of Man Above Reproach— Witnesses Called.

After bringing out through its witnesses a most remarkable story of manipulation of checks in the looting of the People Bank of California, the commonwealth in the case of W. L. Lenhart, charged with conspiracy to defraud that institution, yesterday afternoon rested its case. The feature of the afternoon was the evidence of W. L. Lenhart himself who took the stand and made a sweeping denial of all the criminal charges against him.

The commonwealth introduced testimony yesterday to show that William L. Lenhart used all manner of schemes to secure funds from the bank. Testimony was given that showed he had forged a number of papers in the name of a former stenographer in his office. The manner in which checks were written, and his employees induced to sign them, yet receiving no compensation from the transaction, as told in the testimony, was a remarkable story.

Lenhart when called to the stand in his own defense strongly denied that he ever intended to defraud the bank or that he ever entered into any agreement with O. F. Piper to defraud the bank of money. He denied the statement of O. F. Piper, made Tuesday that they had ever agreed to do so. He denied ever told him anything about the records of the bank and said that he had never seen the W. S. Brown into the Charleroi and Lenhart company, business expenses, but that he secured the loans in a proper manner, and is nowise indebted to O. F. Piper. This testimony covered practically what the defense had stated they would show.

Attorney John Freeman, before Lenhart was called opened up the case for the defense. He stated that they would prove that Lenhart was guilty of no crime, and was a business man of good standing. Various witnesses were introduced principally among which was Mrs. W. S. Brown of Brownsville the former stenographer for Mr. Lenhart.

She is the party who carried nearly all the papers that passed between O. F. Piper and W. L. Lenhart. It was her name that the commonwealth alleges W. L. Lenhart and Piper used in carrying out transactions, by which cashier's checks were issued to W. L. Lenhart to an amount aggregating $90,380.

At the time these cashier's checks were issued the commonwealth showed that there was no such person as M. L. Burd, the marriage having taken place in September preceding, and that she knew nothing of these transactions and received no profit from them. These checks were shown her, and she denied having endorsed any of them. The commonwealth alleges that the endorsement of M. L. Burd was signed and forged by William L.

Lenhart or caused and procured to be signed by William L. Lenhart.

There are a large number of checks in evidence, between five and six hundred, which were issued to individuals, corporations and companies, which were paid out by the Peoples Bank of California, and no record made on the bank's books.

Mrs. Cornwell stated that no records were made on the books of Chatland and Lenhart, of the transactions with the People's Bank of California, but that W. L. Lenhart kept a private account of these transactions. It was brought out during Mrs. Cornwell's testimony that the business of Chatland and Lenhart was conducted very irregularly. She testified to often having to force a balance in making the accounts of that firm.

O. F. Piper was cross examined by the defense and an effort made to force him to an admission that he was testifying for the commonwealth under a promise of consideration toward turning state's evidence. He refused to state this.

MOVEMENT IN THIS COUNTY FOR IMPROVED ROADS

The good roads question is being continually kept to the front in this county, and the commissioners are receiving petitions at frequent intervals for the improvement of some highways without the confines of some of the townships. The latest request is for the improvement of the Bentleyville road which leads from the residence of Mrs. George Davis, on Williamsport pike, in South Strabane township, past the Pigeon Creek Presbyterian church, and is a much traveled highway between Washington and Bentleyville. It is hoped to make an improved road, eventually, from Washington to Charleroi. Three miles of Sprowl road are already constructed up Maple Creek, and which will be continued to Bentleyville, and a section from that town to the Pigeon Creek U. P. church, in addition to the other proposed improvement, would give fine highway from the river to the county seat. The residents of South Strabane township, who are making a move for this improvement, are progressive in the direction of good roads, and lose no opportunity to get an improvement of this kind.

SATURDAY TWO BIG GAMES

On Saturday the fans will be treated to two games for one admission. The first game will begin at 2 o'clock when Grafton will be the attraction. The second contest will be between the strong Monessen team and Charleroi and will be called immediately after the first game. This will be the last appearance of Charleroi on the home grounds until September 7 in the afternoon when Uniontown plays.

CHERUBS CAPTURE ONE FROM BABES

Pitchers Battle Between Humphries and Jenkins Up To Eighth.

MONTIES SCORE ON ERROR

Fairmont was the attraction at the ball park yesterday afternoon and pretty near enough people to make a noise were there. This shortage of rooters didn't have much effect on the players however and everybody was on their toes. Mr. Jenkins the big fellow from the Fairmont camp, and the man who hung the defeat sign on the Brooklyn Nationals, was selected by Manager Snodgrass to do the heaving. It donned upon Osborne that Willis Humphries was equal to the occasion and sent him in to hold up Charleroi's end. It was a rare battle that was pulled off. Neither man seemed to have anything on the other during the first stages of the game.

Although Fairmont scored a run in the third inning it was not on account of the weakness of Humphries. After one man had gone over the road, Core got one for three bases. King tried to hit it out but got it as fair as the pitchers and was easy at first. Right there is where the trouble appeared. Parker met one on the nose that went sailing to left field. Toohey made a nice effort and got under it all right and everybody thought the side was retired until they saw the horsehide fall from Toohey's hands which left Parker safe on first and Core over the gum with a run. Charleroi had one chance to score in the second inning. After two were down Nally stung one on the nose and stole second. Cosgrove followed with one to middle on which Nally tried to score. Haught cut him short at the plate and ended the inning. The eighth inning was too much for Jenkins, however. First he walked Urban, and then hit Cosgrove. Willis Humphries made three on with a single. When Nally stung one on the nose two runs came over, a wild pitch sent another across and when Dunn singled the fourth was registered. Score:

WEBSTER MAN'S IRE IS AROUSED

Don't Want P. & L. E. Company To Move Tracks On His Property.

GETS GUN; HIRES COP

What promise to be a bitter legal battle has developed in Webster between the P. & L. E. railroad company and one of the residents of the town with regard to a franchise. It seems that the railroad company contemplates re-locating the tracks in a certain section of the town and in order to do this must acquire some additional property.

The one who will be most injured by the change is John Taylor, proprietor of the Taylor House, whose property it will be necessary for the company to acquire in order to make the improvements contemplated. Whether or not the gentleman has been approached with a proposition from the company or whether he refuses to sell a portion of his real estate is not known, but it is understood Tuesday night was the time set for the removal of the company's lines onto the Taylor property.

Mr. Taylor suspected that something was going to be doing judging from the excitement that was beginning to prevail in labor circles. So he came to Monessen late in the evening and secured the service of Constable Leo Walker and ex-officer Watts was deputized. The gentleman at once armed himself and proceeded to the scene of expected trouble and remained on guard all night. There was nothing doing but the lie hearted officer kept throughout yesterday morning and afternoon vigilant guard. Mr. Taylor went to Greenburg yesterday and secured a temporary injunction restraining the company from entering his property. Curtis H. Gregg was empowered as attorney.

FOUND HOW BANK WAS WRECKED

The manner in which J. B. F. Rinehart handled politics and politicians and manipulated the funds of the Farmers and Drovers National Bank of Waynesburg has been disclosed.

The incident that wrecked the bank despite the fact that it was already in a precarious condition was the election of the spring of 1905. The Democrats and Republicans each had women up for nomination for Judgeship. Rinehart had a man on each ticket and the funds of the bank was expended in the ranks of both parties. Rinehart's man in the Republican party lost, but he succeeded in getting the nomination for his man in the other ranks. As a consequence it became a paramount necessity that Rinehart elect the Democratic ticket, as the Republican nominee was antagonistic to his method of running both a bank and politics. To the Republican candidate Rinehart openly declared: "I will beat you if I break the Farmers and Drovers National bank."

He did both. On that election day $400,000 is considered a low estimate of the money spent in the purchase of votes and lost the entire amount passed through the hands of Rinehart.

ROOTS OF TREES CAUSING TROUBLE

Carolina Poplars Proving a Menace To Sewers And Flush Tanks.

VERY SERIOUS PROBLEM

A grave question is facing the people of Charleroi today in the growth of the roots of thousands of Carolina poplars which are planted throughout the town, into the sewers and flush tanks, and gradually but surely stopping them up, so that the sewers have to be torn up and cleaned, thus entailing considerable expenditure to the borough. In the window of F. W. Jones, the undertaker of Fallowfield avenue, there is being displayed a root which very recently was taken out of a flush tank on Washington avenue near Second street, by the street commissioner. The bushy root which is from a small tree several feet away clearly shows how they will reach for a wet spot and in a short time completely stop up a sewer or flush tank.

The Carolina poplar requires a damper soil than any other tree known and the roots will follow in many cases a sewer for one hundred feet and then enter through some little crevice. The roots are so very bushy and grow so extremely fast that in a very short time they will fill up an ordinary sewer until it is impossible for even water to get through.

It is very likely that council will take up the matter at a meeting soon and ascertain if there is not some way in which to save the borough from spending a large sum sooner or later in having new sewer laid throughout town. Street commissioner Jacob Hornell has reported several places where the sewer is almost clogged by roots, and will have to be cleaned out or new pipes put in.

SEVEN PRINCIPALS FINED $2.85 EACH

Ten men, Slavs and Syrians, were given hearings last night before Burgess Hott on a charge of having precipitated a race riot at the corner of Teuth street and McKean avenue, Monday night, and seven fined $1 and costs or $2.85 each and three discharged. The case was much mixed up, the Syrians trying to establish the blame for the occurrence on the Slavs, while the latter race told a tale which placed the entire blame on the Syrians. The three who were discharged were found to not be concerned.

ARRESTED FOR A BOARD BILL

Young Man Of Charleroi Caught After Eluding Many Officers.

RUNS INTO OFFICER

Constable J. W. Mitchell, of Connellsville was in Charleroi this morning to either have straightened up the case of a young man of this place or take him back to Connellsville for trial, on a charge of absconding from a boarding house at that place. A warrant was issued on July 23 for the man, but he has been at large since that time. He escaped from the Homestead police and slipped through the hands of Constable Mitchell, himself but yesterday run into Chief of Police Albright at the corner of Fallowfield avenue and Third street and was nabbed.

The affair was straightened up by Constable Mitchell and the father of the young man, before the officer returned to Connellsville. The name is withheld by the police on account of respect for the father.

MONONGAHELA FIRM SECURES FRICK CONTRACT

Contracts were signed yesterday by the Capell Fan Engineering company, of Monongahela, and the H. C. Frick Coke company for the building, erection and installation of four immense ventilating fans to be placed at different places of the coke company. These fans, which are to be capable of delivering 400,000 cubic feet of air per minute at 6 inch water gauge, will be 26 feet in diameter, with a 7-foot face. They will be driven by engines of 400 horse power, two of which will be connected with each fan, one engine always being held in reserve in case of accident. The work will call for the use of 500 tons of steel and iron, and work on the contract is already under way. The fans will be erected at the Ralph, Sarah, Palmer and Filbert mines of the Frick company, all new shafts and all located in Fayette county.

The contract is an unusually large one, and will require some time in which to complete it. It also attests the quality of the product turned out by the Monongahela manufacturing company, and is in all probability but the forerunner of other contracts from the big coke and coal companies of this part of the state.

A DRUG STORE DEAL

Involving an address the Soda Water Man.

Josephine, a young girl, ordered a chocolate cake in the similar abominable case she sat down to drink it. The long feathers of her hair, the lighter, naturally they blazed. The clerk, however, was not to be taken away from Miss Coban and poured it on her but completely extinguishing the flames. Miss Coban, wearing a studied reluctance, as the repeated swarms, trickled down the back of her hair, round neck, rose and did a few rapid steps. Then she started to go away. "One minute, miss," said the clerk. "Haven't you forgotten something?"

Miss Coban said yes, she had forgotten a lot of things. She had forgotten the sense she was born with, for one thing, going into a place where they first get fire to her and then emptied a half portion of frozen garbage down her fingerie waist to suppress the fire demon. "You'd be a star at Coney, young man," was her decision. "I'm for you in the fighting the Flames' east any day."

But the clerk said he wanted a dime for the soda. Miss Coban previously inquired what soda he was talking about. "I have had no soda here," said she. "You handed me one, and then before I got the connection with an arid palate established you tore it away to dump on my new hat."

But the clerk said he wanted a dime, just the same. Miss Coban said she'd pay a dime for a soda in that dump the day following her commitment to Mattenwan. "Whenever you see me breezing in here and demanding a plate of your best fire extinguisher, blow the whistle," said she. "I'm off for the funny house."

But the clerk said he wanted a dime for that soda. He said it in such a nasty way that Miss Coban got red mad.

"My hat cost $50," said she, "and you've ruined it. Give me $40.00 change and let me go." And that's the way the matter stands.

Miss Coban walks blocks put of her way how to make a false start through the drug store door and then, as if suddenly recollecting, turns away with a scream of terror. The clerk goes behind the prescription counter and makes faces in a mirror. New York Letter to Cincinnati Times-Star.

A Small but Welcome Act.

"If people who travel on steam railroads were as thoughtful as they should be, instead of throwing their newspapers down on the floor of the car after finishing with them they would wait until they saw a gang of section hands and then toss their papers to the workmen," said Mr. A. R. Webb of St. Louis.

"These men, even if humble wage earners, are endowed with a desire to know what is doing in the world, and it is an act of the greatest kindness to help them to this source of pleasure and education. Some of our western dailies have taken up this cause and are printing short notices asking railway passengers to give their newspapers to the toilers along the road."

Big Writers.

London. The Bits has recently been publishing some facts about the stature of well known English authors. In one of its articles it says: "Of past giants in literature, in two senses, of the term, William Shakespeare, who was six feet three inches in height, Col. J. G. Rogers, the present time, we have Sir Arthur Conan Doyle who is six feet two inches high, but doesn't look it on account of his stalwart build. Then there is Rudyard Kipling, who is six feet three inches in height, while Hesketh Pritchard is even a shade taller. Kipling Howard runs to six feet one and one-half inches in height, while his brother, R. S. Warren Bell, who at once ends and tops our list, is close to six feet five inches."

End of the Madstone.

The government has put the madstone out of business. It will be distressing news to many old families in which madstones have been handed down from generation to generation and guarded as carefully as any heirloom to hear that a government scientist, as reported in the Boston Transcript, says the specific value of one of these stones against rabies "is no greater than that of a piece of blotting paper applied in the same manner."

Towns Named Taft.

Since the nomination of Secretary Taft the newspapers of the country have been discovering villages and hamlets bearing the name of the presidential candidate. According to the Chicago Tribune, there are eleven places in this country bearing the name of Taft, besides any number of Taftvilles, Taftons, Taftvates, and Taftdales. The states that have Taft on the map at present are Indiana, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, Oregon, Texas, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina and Oklahoma.

The Czar's Table.

The czar's table is financed on a scale of enormous extravagance. Each dish provided is put down at 10 rubles—a ruble is worth about 3 shillings—and each single article of food counts as a dish, though it may be only a few olives or a bunch of celery. At great state dinners the spending is still higher. London P. T. O.

JOHN BUYING A RING

A Story They Tell in Japan to Illustrate Occidental Love.

"The Japanese marry out of esteem and trust to the coming of love afterward," said a Japanese lady. "With us when love comes it lasts. We have a song that we like to sing. 'I want to live to ninety-nine years, and you must live to be a hundred, so that we may be happy while our hair grows gray.'"

"That is better," she continued, "than the love that comes swiftly and as swiftly flies away again." They tell in Japan a story illustrative of this traditionary love—the love of your vest.

"A tourist," they say, "was touring Brittany. He came to Quimper, and he found in the Place Publique beside the river an old woman selling trinkets."

"What is the price of this?" he asked, taking up an antique ring of silver and sapphires.

"Is it for your wife or for your sweetheart?" said the old woman.

"For my sweetheart."

"Fifty francs."

"Fifty francs? Nonsense! And the tourist turned angrily away."

"Come back," said the old woman. "Take it for ten. You've been lying to me though. You have no sweetheart. Had the ring been for her you'd have bought it at once without regard to its price."

"I will take it," said the tourist, smiling. "Here are the 10 francs."

"So the old woman wrapped the ring up."

"But you haven't a wife either," she grumbled. "If it had been for her you'd have beaten me down to 5 francs. Oh, you men!"

NATURE'S LITTLE SHIP.

A Curious Jellyfish Endowed With a Movable Sail.

While man makes the largest ocean vessels, nature makes the smallest. This is a species of jellyfish, found only in tropical seas, which has a sail.

The part of the fish under the water looks like a mass of tangled threads, while the sail is a tough membrane, shaped like a shell and measuring quite five inches and sometimes more across. The fish can raise or lower this sail at will.

Wise sailors let this curiosity of nature alone, for each of the threads composing its body has the power of stinging, the results of which are very painful and often dangerous. This power defends it from porpoises, albatrosses and other natural enemies.

It has no other means of locomotion than its sail, and when seen skimming bravely along the surface of the water it looks more like a child's toy boat than a living creature out in search of food. London Saturday Review.

Treating Them All Alike.

There was only one thing in the world of which Eben Ransom thoroughly approved: that was hard, steady work. "I hope," said the philanthropic epistoler who was spending a fortnight at the Ransom farm, "I do hope, Mr. Ransom, that you treat all your men alike; give them all equal advantages and wages. I find a varying standard, if I may use the expression, makes so much trouble and discontent among laborers in any field of work."

Mr. Ransom surveyed her gravely and nodded assent.

"You're right there, ma'am," he said dryly after a moment. "There is just one rule for the folks that work for me. 'Begin as early and keep it up as late as there's light to go by, and you'll get your one-fifty a day, unless the times are unusual hard, when I make it one-twenty-five.'"

"But I tell you, ma'am, you can't get as many fellers to work on an equal basis nowadays as you might think."

Her Modest Request.

When Andrew D. White was minister to Germany he received some queer letters from Americans. Perhaps the funniest of all was a mandatory epistle from an old lady living in the west, who inclosed in her letter four pieces of white linen, each some six inches square. "We are going to have a fair in our church," she wrote, "and I am making an autograph quilt. I want you to get me the autographs of the emperor, the empress and the crown prince and tell them to be very careful not to write too near the edge of the squares, as a seam has to be allowed for putting them together."

The full name is Tamatawhakatangihangakoanaotatoneurarakititanaatubu. The translation is: "The hill on which Tanemahurangi (the husband of heaven) played his flute to his beloved." Auckland Letter.

Marital Persiflage.

"I must confess," remarked Mrs. Crabbe, "I don't believe there ever was a really perfect man."

"Well," replied Mr. Crabbe, "I suppose that's because Eve wasn't made first."

"How do you mean?"

"Well, if Eve had been made first she would have bossed the job of making Adam." Philadelphia Press.

Wealth a Burden.

"Do you find great wealth a burden?"

"Sometimes," answered Mr. Cumrox. "There's never any telling when mother and the girls are going to invest in a touring car or a steam yacht or a foreign nobleman or some such form of voracious and responsibility."

Bits of News From The County Courts

George Driehoff, a young Polish miner of Ellsworth, was found guilty yesterday afternoon at Washington, of changing coal checks, and was fined $25 and costs or 60 days in jail. Having no money he went back to jail. The private prosecutor was William Stashiski. The commonwealth alleged that the defendant, who works in room 19 of mine No. 1, had gone to room No. 12, of the private prosecutor, and there carried away a loading check, No. 225 and substituted in the car check No. 211, under which he was working. The private prosecutor testified he had had checks taken before and he decided to watch out for the thief. He loaded a car one evening, placed his check in the usual place in the car and when he came to work the next morning his check was gone and 211 substituted. He called in some of the miners in adjoining rooms and they testified seeing the 211 check in the private prosecutor's room. It was found 211 check belonged to Driehoff. Driehoff denied the theft, saying he left a check on an empty car that evening, and when he went to work the next morning the car and check were gone.

William Coloski, of near Monongahela, entered a plea of guilty yesterday morning to the charge of indecent assault and battery at court. The private prosecutor was William Garski on behalf of his wife. The court said there might be some doubt in the case, and therefore he would give the defendant the maximum sentence for assault and battery, viz: costs, fine of $1 and imprisonment in the workhouse for one year.

The case of Crawford Sarver, charged with assault and battery by Sheriff Malone, went to the jury at the adjournment of court. Both parties come from Monongahela and are frequent visitors in the criminal court. The assault was the result of a drunken quarrel in which the more drunken of the two was worsted.

Devoe is worth $4 or $5 gallons, put on; how much is another paint worth?

Depends on how many gallons you've got to put on, to be equal to one of Devoe.

Mr. J. J. Hall, Sheffield, Pa. painted two houses one coat, five years ago, lead-and-oil, took 40 gallons.

Last summer bought 40 gallons Devoe for same houses; had 10 gallons left.

Mr. N. Avery, Delhi, N. Y. owns two houses exactly alike; painted one with Devoe; took 6 gallons. The other with some other; took 12 gallons.

What'd you give for those off paints? Bear in mind, you've got to pay for the painting. Buckholdt Hardware Co. sells our paint.

RISE OF RIVER NOT ENOUGH FOR BOATING STAGE

The mine operators and boatmen along the river are extremely anxious over the continued low stage of water, but are somewhat encouraged by the rise during the past two or three days. It has only been for about six inches however and the stage of water is still about a foot under the coal boating stage. At Lock 4 this morning the reading was 7 feet, 8 inches. Little coal is being shipped through the local lock.

The packet Columbia, Capt Lloyd, had a large excursion party out from Carmichaels to Morgantown Tuesday and was late in reaching Pittsburgh yesterday. Capt. Lloyd will have the union outing of the Methodist Episcopal churches from California and Coal Center on the packet today. The towboat Jack Taylor left Parkers Run mines on the Monongahela river yesterday with a tow of coal approximating 50,000 bushels for the Tin Plate company at McKeesport. This is a comparatively heavy shipment at this time.

HARMLESS REMARK CAUSES FIGHT

A remark that it looked like rain precipitated a fight on McKean avenue and Tenth street last evening. Charles Thornton, a colored man, had been to the ball game and in returning home, passed three German men at Tenth street. It is said that just as he passed one of them made the above remark and thinking he was applying it insinuatingly on him spoke to the man, and asked him to take back the insult. This led up to the fight. Arrests were made and Thornton fined $3 and costs.

Government on Milk Epidemics

The federal health authorities are doing a good work in laying before the public an exhaustive study of milk supply and its relation to the public health.

One special subject for inquiry by the federal investigators was the frequency of the "milk epidemics," as they are called. An enormous amount of statistical material relating to the last fifty years has accordingly been collected and sifted. Here one will find summarized the essential details of 317 outbreaks of typhoid, 125 of scarlet fever and 51 of diphtheria, all showing their origin to infected milk, though it is admitted that not all the statistics available from foreign sources have been included. While it is demonstrated clearly that typhoid, scarlet fever and diphtheria are the diseases most frequently spread by milk infection the bulletin indicates that Asiatic cholera, dysentery and Malt fever are also communicable through milk.

These, with the diseases already mentioned, are all cases in which the milk becomes infected on its way from the cow to the consumer. There is another class of cases—those in which the milk is infected when it leaves the cow. Seventeen per cent of all the fifty years supplying the city of Washington were recently found to be "tuberculous" and physicians say there is no longer any doubt that tuberculosis is communicated from other animals to man. The only remedy seems to be the complete pasteurization, or sterilization, of all milk. The bulletin recommends the confiscation of all cows found to be tuberculous, their owners to be compensated out of a government fund. Until this sweeping measure is taken, the duty of a more vigilant inspection of the public milk supply will rest upon the cities.

One milk seems to be safe, as infectant as pure water. Cleanliness in the dairy houses will go a long way, however, towards having the milk in a good condition for the consumer.

There is a tradition in Norwich,

mowed, and for forty years this operation has never been known to fail to bring rain. When the meadow was mowed recently the rain came down in torrents.

Each day they drink about 200,000 gal-

Modes of the Moment.

Sashes are used effectively on the new gowns. They serve the purpose of girdles, hip ropes and shoulderettes.

The big hats which attained such a vogue in the spring are being worn this summer and will probably last over into fall.

For late summer and early fall wear
there are foulard dresses with cloth quarter length and lined with the foulard.

Bordered linens are having a great vogue. They can be made up with

A strong recommendation for the appointment of an officer to be known as the "Chief of Cavalry" has been made by a commission of cavalry officers attached to the army staff college. It is argued that the chief should be a member of the general staff, and head of the committee considering questions relating to the cavalry, having power to inspect that branch of the service, to determine where the standards of efficiency require to be maintained.

The committee says that nearly every civilized nation has a cavalry official with powers and duties similar to those outlined above, and expresses the belief that the practice of those nations is amply warrant for the establishment of a similar office in the American army.

Among the Exchanges

So He Quit

A janitor in a neighboring school threw up his job, the other day.
When asked what was the trouble, he said, "I'm honest, and I won't stand being shamed. If I find a pencil or a handkerchief about the school I hang it up. Every little while the teacher or some one that is too cowardly to face me, gives me a sign." (In what way?) asked the janitor. "Why, a little while ago I saw a sign written on the board, 'And this common multiple.' Well, I looked from cellar to garret, and I wouldn't know
the thing if I met it on the street.
What made me quit my job? Last night in big writin' on the blackboard, it said, 'find the greatest common divisor.' Well, I say to myself, both them darn things are lost now,
and I'll be blamed for swipin' 'em,
so I'll quit.—Somerset Star.

Opinion of Pure Food Law.

One of popular government's most disappointing features is that laws passed for the protection of the people's rights so very seldom stay put.
Let the lawmakers pass a bill granting valuable concessions to a private company, and that bill will stand unshaken through the ages and defy the crack of doom; but, when a bill is passed in behalf of the people, there is another story to tell.

Recently we saw the courts of Pennsylvania rob the 2-cent fare bill of most of its effectiveness, and now a county court has held that the pure food act of June 1, 1907, is unconstitutional. It is not denied that health and life are threatened by the adulterating and drugging of foods, but a purely technical imperfection in the law utterly destroy it, says the judge. Another law will probably be passed at the next session of the legislature, but as it, too, will be against private interests and in favor of the whole people, some court probably will punch a hole in it big enough to allow the adulterators to crawl through. The nation can have an efficient pure food law, but it seems impossible for a state to have one of that kind.

One of these days, perhaps, the American people will awake to the fact that practically all of their governmental ills are due to our vicious federal system, and will unite in a demand for the calling of a national constitutional convention for the purpose of making this a homogenous republic in which state lines shall not mark the bound of sovereignties but shall be mere convenient divisions of a nation that shall in its every part be ruled by uniform laws.—Ex.

Signs of the Times.

One of the most hopeful signs of Monessen is the continued output of the mills. The big tin mill at South Sharon has just shut down for a period of possibly four weeks, yet all the mills or Monessen continue to produce their full share of finished goods.
We should be thankful that we are so fortunate, situated, that our mills are running their full capacity.
There is really no reason for complaint among our business men when the condition of their towns is considered. In Altoona recently 12,000 men were suspended from the big shops of the Pennsylvania railroad company, and only last week 400 of this large number were reinstated.
Truly the lines of Monessen workmen have fallen in pleasant places.—Mon-essen News.

Your clothes fit you better than your father's fit him; they cost more money; they are more stylish; your mustache is neater; the cut of your hair is better and you are prettier, O, far prettier than "Dad." But young man, the old gentleman gets the bigger salary and his homely scrambling signature on the business end of a check will bring more money out of the bank in five minutes than you could get with a ream of paper and a copper plate signature in six months. Young men are useful and we love them and we couldn't engineer a picnic successfully without them.

But they are not novelties, son, O, no, nothing of the kind. They have been here before. Do not be so modest as to shut yourself clear out;
but don't be so fresh that you will have to be put away in the cool to keep from spoiling. Don't be afraid that your merits will not be discovered. People all over the world are hunting for you, and if you are worth finding they will find you. A diamond isn't so easily found as a quartz pebble, but people search for it all the more intensely.—Ex.

Vaccination in Cambodia.

Vaccination has succeeded the devil-dancing medicine man in Cambodia.
The plague has proved mightier than the Buddhist belief in fate and custom for turning the Khmer mind to modern ways and means. We read that King Sisavath in the fervor of his conversion offered both legs and both arms to the surgeon's quill and was persuaded with difficulty that inoculation in one place was sufficient.

The account of this matter suggests a comic-opera theme. Yet in the plague is no spirit of burlesque; and Cambodia was regarded once as a high seat of learning, civilization and wealth. It had an architecture which eventually furnished ruins.
Phnom Penh Surviving was a great king of the fifth century, at about that time the saying, "Rich as on the prosperity of The glory passed

it were lost territory and
The present King, when he indulge in particular acts must say "If you please"
French. However, Sisavath
mitted to accept vaccination own accord after his son and his son's wives had stubbornly ted the quill and died.

Vaccination is therefore now the rage in the Cambodian court. It has acquired the dignity of a royal function. The King is sore, the Ministers are sore and the household of the palace is sore. But the plague is stayed. Pathologic advance has waited upon the degenerate days of a dynasty.

Making More Than
a Living

Nearly every man who works steadily makes more than a living. During these slow times the men who have saved something appreciate what it is, to have something laid away for a rainy day. A few cents a day soon counts up, and when savings are placed in a bank at a tidy interest the sum soon grows to proportions that make it a safeguard against want, when work is not plentiful. Figure up how much more than a living you are making now, and place
the difference in this bank.

HERE AND THERE

John Floyd, of Northumberland, aged 17 years, is charged with having looted a jewelry store three times and warrants are out for his arrest.

George A. Cer, a life term murderer, who escaped from prison at Atlanta, Ga., in 1904, has just been arrested in Harrisburg and will be taken south to complete his sentence.

The Luzerne county fair opened at West Side park, Wilkes-Barre on Monday, with an unusually fine exhibit of agricultural products and machinery, and live stock.

The coroner's jury of inquest over the bodies of J. E. Chronister and his 7-year-old son, Elden, killed recently by a York and Hanover trolley car, has returned a verdict censuring the railway company for running its cars at too high a speed.

John Sherb, a well known farmer living near Hanover, York county, aged 60 years, fell asleep on the Western Maryland railroad tracks near his home on Sunday night and was run over by a freight train and instantly killed.

Notice was given on Monday that Northampton county, which have been running on half time since last year, will be placed on full time with 400 operatives by Thursday.

Major Edward A. Weed, aged 66 years, stopped in Chester on Monday en route on his way from New York to has already made a tour of 2,353 miles this season in the New England states. Monday was the first toll road he ever struck.

Margaret Bivner, of Wrightsville, York county, aged 2 years, got hold of a box of strychnine pills during the absence of her mother on Monday and ate a number of them thinking they were candy. A fraction of the dose would have killed her and she escaped death because she had taken such an overdose.

About 2 o'clock on Monday morning Policeman Hergenrother, of Lancaster, caught Stephen Makert setting fire to his own stable. The fire was extinguished and the offender taken into custody. Makert has been in trouble before having been accused of receiving stolen poultry and of fore stalling the market.

The illness of all the eight members of the Harden family in York township, York county, is attributed to the unsanitary conditions about the home, as Health Officer Hersler, of Dallastown, found chickens ducks and pigs making themselves at home in the kitchen and conditions were very filthy about the premises.

Forty Thousand in Parade.

participated in Carnegie's "Old Home Week" features. The streets of the town were thronged from early morning until midnight, and during the evening the torchlighting of almost every home club and social organization was a success.

A DRUG STORE DEAL

Involving the Soda Water Machine. Josephine, a young girl, for similar abdominal pains, sat down to drink from a soda water machine. The machine was a light-colored, cylindrical, with a pump handle. The clerk, who was a young man, wrestled the pump handle of the soda away from Miss Cohen and poured it on her hat, completely extinguishing the flame. Miss Cohen, hearing the sound of the soda water being poured, rushed to the door and saw the clerk. She said: "One minute, miss," said the clerk. "Haven't you forgotten something?"

Miss Cohen said yes, she had forgotten a lot of things. She had forgotten the sense she was born with, for one thing, going into a place where they first set fire to her and then emptied a half portion of frozen garbage down her lingerie waist to suppress the fire demon. "You'd be a star at Cooney, young man," was her decision. "I'm for you in the fight for the flames' cost any day."

But the clerk said he wanted a dime for the soda. Miss Cohen previously inquired what soda he was talking about. "I have had no soda here," said she. "You handed me one, and then before I got the connection with an acid palate established you tore it away to dump on my new hat."

But the clerk said he wanted a dime, just the same. Miss Cohen said she'd pay a dime for a soda in that dump the day following her commitment to Maternity. "Whenever you see me breezing in here and demanding a plate of your best fire extinguisher, blow the whistle," said she. "I'm off for the family horse."

But the clerk said he wanted a dime for that soda. He said it in such a snarling way that Miss Cohen got real mad.

"My hat cost $50," said she, "and you're ruined it. Give me $40.00 change and let me go." And that's the way the matter stands.

Miss Cohen walks blocks out of her way now to make a false start through the drug store door and then, as if suddenly recollecting, turns away with a scream of terror. The clerk goes behind the prescription counter and makes faces in a mirror. New York Letter to Cincinnati Times-Star.

A Small but Welcome Act.

"If people who travel on steam railroads were as thoughtful as they should be, instead of throwing their newspapers down on the floor of the car after finishing with them they would wait until they saw a gang of section hands and then toss their papers to the workmen," said Mr. A. R. Webb of St. Louis.

"These men, even if humble wage earners, are endowed with a desire to know what is doing in the world, and it is an act of the greatest kindness to help them to this source of pleasure and education. Some of our western dailies have taken up this cause and are printing short notices asking railway passengers to give their newspapers to the toilers along the road."

Big Writers.

London Tit-Bits has recently been publishing some facts about the stature of well known English authors. In one of its articles it says: "Of past giants in literature, in the sense of the term, William Shakespeare, who was six feet three inches in height. Confessing to the present time, we have Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, who is six feet two inches high, but doesn't look it on account of his slender build. Then there is Cutcliffe Hyne, who is six feet, three inches in height, while Flecknoe Pritchard is even a shade taller. Kobie Howard runs to six feet one and one-half inches in height, while his brother, R. S. Warren Bell, who at once ends and tops our list is close to six feet, five inches."

End of the Madstone.

The government has put the madstone out of business. It will be distressing news to many old families in which madstones have been handed down from generation to generation and guarded as carefully as any heirloom to bear that a government scientist, as reported in the Boston Transcript, says the specific value of one of these stones against rabies "is no greater than that of a piece of blotting paper applied in the same manner." By way of waiving his says, "The application of madstones gives the unlightened public a false sense of security, and their use should be discouraged by all possible means."

Towns Named Taft.

Since the nomination of Secretary Taft the newspapers of the country have been discovering villages and hamlets bearing the name of the presidential candidate. According to the Chicago Tribune, there are eleven places in this country bearing the name of Taft, besides any number of Taftvilles, Taftons, Taftvales, and Taftdales. The states that have Taft on the map at present are Indiana, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, Oregon, Texas, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina and Oklahoma.

The Czar's Table.

The czar's table is a table of enormous extravagance. Each dish provided is put down at 10 rubles—a ruble is worth about 8 shillings—and each single article of food counts as a dish, though it may be only a few slices of a ham or a turkey. At each meal the czar's table is well served. London P. T. O.

BUYING A RING

A Story They Tell in Japan to Illustrate Occidental Love.

"The Japanese marry out of esteem and trust to the coming of love afterward," said a Japanese lady. "When we love comes it lasts. We have a song that we like to sing: 'I want to live to ninety-nine years, and you must live to be a hundred, so that we may be happy while our hair grows gray.'"

"That is better," she continued, "than the love that comes swiftly and as swiftly flies away again. They tell in Japan a story illustrative of this transitory love—the love of your west."

"A tourist," they say, was touring Brittany. He came to Quimper, and he found in the Place Publique beside the river an old woman selling trinkets.

"What is the price of this?" he asked, taking up an antique ring of silver and sapphires.

"Is it for your wife or for your sweetheart?" said the old woman.

"For my sweetheart."

"Fifty francs."

"Fifty francs! Nonsense! And the tourist turned angrily away."

"Come back," said the old woman. "Take it for ten. You've been lying to me, though. You have no sweetheart."

"I bought it at once without regard to its price."

"I will take it," said the tourist, smiling. "Here are the 10 francs."

"So the old woman wrapped the ring up."

"But you haven't a wife either," she crumbled. "If it had been for her I'd have beaten me down to 5 francs. Oh, you men!"

NATURE'S LITTLE SHIP.

A Curious Jellyfish Endowed With a Movable Sail.

While man makes the largest ocean vessels, nature makes the smallest. This is a species of jellyfish, found only in tropical seas, which has a sail.

The part of the fish under the water looks like a mass of tangled threads, while the sail is a rough membrane, shaped like a shell and measuring quite five inches and sometimes more across. The fish can raise or lower this sail at will.

Wise sailors let this curiosity of nature alone, for each of the threads composing its body has the power of stinging, the results of which are very painful and often dangerous. This power defends it from porpoises, albatrosses and other natural enemies.

It has no other means of locomotion than its sail, and when seen skimming bravely along the surface of the water it looks more like a child's toy boat than a living creature out in search of food. London Saturday Review.

Treating Them All Alike.

There was only one thing in the world of which Eben Ransom thoroughly approved; that was hard, steady work. "I hope," said the philanthropic spinster who was spending a fortnight at the Ransom farm, "I do hope, Mr. Ransom, that you treat all your men alike; give them all equal advantages and wages. I find a varying standard, if I may use the expression, makes so much trouble and discontent among laborers in any field of work."

Mr. Ransom surveyed her gravely and nodded assent.

"You're right there, ma'am," he said dryly after a moment. "There is just one rule for the folks that work for me. Begin as early and keep it up as late as there's light to go by, and you'll get your one-fifty a day, unless the times are unusual hard, when I make it one-twenty-five."

Her Modest Request.

When Andrew D. White was minister to Germany he received some queer letters from Americans. Perhaps the funniest of all was a mandatory epistle from an old lady living in the west, who inclosed in her letter four pieces of white linen, each some six inches square. "We are going to have a fair in our church," she wrote, "and I am making an autograph quilt. I want you to get me the autographs of the emperor, the empress and the crown prince and tell them to be very careful not to write too near the edge of the squares, as a seam has to be allowed for putting them together."

A Maori Name.

A seaside resort in the Hawke's bay district of New Zealand is called by the charming Maori name Tamataukatangihangaokoau. But this is only an abbreviation. The full name is Tamataukatangihangaokoauataoanenuirangikitanatapu. The translation is: "The hill on which Taneuiraangi (the husband of heaven) played his flute to his beloved." Auckland Letter.

Marital Perfidy.

"I must confess," remarked Mrs. Crabbe, "I don't believe there ever was a really perfect man."

"Well," replied Mr. Crabbe, "I suppose that's because Eve wasn't made first."

"How do you mean?"

"Well, if Eve had been made first she would have bossed the job of making Adam." Philadelphia Press.

Wealth's Burden.

"Do you want to be rich?" asked a friend of Mr. Cumrox. "There's never any telling when mother and the girls are going to invest in a touring car or a steam yacht or a foreign policeman or some such thing," he said. Washington Post.

Bits of News From The County Courts

George Driehoff, a young Polish miner of Ellsworth, was found guilty yesterday afternoon at Washington, of changing coal checks, and was fined $25 and costs or 60 days in jail. Having no money he went back to jail. The private prosecutor was William Stasinski. The commonwealth alleged that the defendant, who works in room 19 of mine No. 1, had gone to room No. 12, of the private prosecutor, and there carried away a loading check, No. 225 and substituted in the car check No. 211, under which he was working. The private prosecutor testified he had had checks taken before and he decided to watch out for the thief. He loaded a car one evening, placed his check in the usual place in the car and when he came to work the next morning his check was gone and 211 substituted. He called in some of the miners in adjoining rooms and they testified seeing the 211 check in the private prosecutor's room. It was found 211 check belonged to Driehoff. Driehoff denied the theft, saying he left a check on an empty car that evening, and when he went to work the next morning the car and check were gone.

William Coloski, of near Monongahela, entered a plea of guilty yesterday morning to the charge of indecent assault and battery at court. The private prosecutor was William Garski on behalf of his wife. The court said there might be some doubt in the case, and therefore he would give the defendant the maximum sentence for assault and battery, viz: costs, fine of $1 and imprisonment in the workhouse for one year.

The case of Crawford Sarver, charged with assault and battery by Sheriff Malone, went to the jury at the adjournment of court. Both parties come from Monongahela and are frequent visitors in the criminal court. The assault was the result of a drunken quarrel in which the more drunken of the two was worsted.

Both Saved Money.

Devoe is worth $4 or $5 gallons, put on; how much is another paint worth?

Depends on how many gallons you've got to put on, to be equal to one of Devoe.

Mr. J. J. Hall, Sheffield, Pa. painted two houses one coat, five years ago, lead-and-oil, took 40 gallons.

Last summer bought 40 gallons Devoe for same houses; had 10 gallons left.

Mr. N. Avery, Delhi, N. Y. owns two houses exactly alike; painted one with Devoe; took 6 gallons. The other with some other; took 12 gallons.

What'd you give for those on paints? Bear in mind, you've got to pay for the painting. Buckholdt Hardware Co. sells our paint.

RISE OF RIVER NOT ENOUGH FOR BOATING STAGE

The mine operators and boatmen along the river are extremely anxious over the continued low stage of water, but are somewhat encouraged by the rise during the past two or three days. It has only been for about six inches however and the stage of water is still about a foot under the coal boating stage. At Lack 4 this morning the reading was 7 feet, 8 inches. Little coal is being shipped through the local lock.

The packet Columbia, Capt. Lloyd, had a large excursion party out from Carmichaels to Morgantown Tuesday and was late in reaching Pittsburg yesterday. Capt. Lloyd will have the union outing of the Methodist Episcopal churches from California and Coal Center on the packet today. The towboat Jack Taylor left Parkers Run mines on the Monongahela river yesterday with a tow of coal approximating 50,000 bushels for the Tin Plate company at McKeesport. This is a comparatively heavy shipment at this time.

HARMLESS REMARK CAUSES FIGHT

A remark that it looked like rain precipitated a fight on McKean avenue and Tenth street last evening. Charles Thornton, a colored man, had been to the ball game and in returning home, passed three German men at Tenth street. It is said that just as he passed one of them made the above remark and thinking he was applying it insinuatingly on him spoke to the man, and asked him to take back the insult. This led up to the fight. Arrests were made and Thornton fined $3 and costs.
